

Getting Good Start, Treatment Necessary For Tree's Survival

A tree's survival will depend largely on the care and treatment it receives in its early growing stages. Sponsors of the Jacksonville tree planting campaign reminded residents today of the treatment young trees should have to assure a good start.

During recent years, Jacksonville has lost almost 80% of her majestic elm trees. Within the past several years, through the cooperation of the local Pilot club and more recently, with assistance from the Jacksonville Journal Courier, residents of the community have been made aware of replanting city boulevards.

AAUW Opens Season With Dinner Meeting

The Jacksonville Branch of the American Association of University Women held its first meeting of the year Oct. 2nd, in the Multi-purpose Room of Campus Center, MacMurray College. A large group enjoyed the dinner and the program which followed. Mrs. Sherwood Eddy gave the invocation.

The president, Marjorie Gustafson, presided. After welcoming members, guests, and the new members, she introduced the members of the A.A.U.W. Board and announced the following four study groups for the year:

Society's Reflection in the Arts, Great Books, The Growing Gap between the Rich and the Poor Nations, and Testing Values in a Changing Society.

Members had an opportunity to register for any of these groups. Mrs. Charles Barlow, membership chairman, presented the following new members, joiners, and transfers:

New members, Mrs. Ilse Blumenthal, Hunter College and Columbia, M.A.; Mrs. Michael Biloz, Syracuse U.; Miss Sandra Cheney, MacMurray; Mrs. Don Filson, Washington State; Miss Mary Lou Hicks, MacMurray; Mrs. W. D. Fuhrig, Michigan State; Mrs. Victor Wydra, Drake University.

Joiners, Mrs. Roy Mason, MacMurray; Mrs. Emory Story, MacMurray; Teachers' College, Columbia University and transfers: Mrs. Vernon Baker from Winchester, Ill. and Miss Shirley Johnson from Tucson, Ariz.

Mrs. Darwin Clupper, program chairman, introduced the speaker, Dr. Philip H. Decker, assistant professor of speech and theatre arts at MacMurray College and newly appointed acting head of that department. Dr. Decker based his general remarks upon the study-group topic "Society's Reflection in the Arts." He stated that it was wise to begin with the theater, the queen of the arts, in such a study for three reasons: first, it makes use of all other arts, including the architect, the painter, the sculptor, music, and dance; second, it is the most social art and must be enjoyed with others; third, social questions are the contents of drama. One searches for his own identity in a play. Greek plays portray our lives as they really are. Then Dr. Decker introduced his two assistants, Professor and Mrs. Eugene Lauritzen. The three of them presented very effective readings from Sophocles' tragedy, Antigone, and Jack Richardson's serious comedy, The Prodigal, both based on Greek myths.

Any additional information concerning the care of the new growth may be obtained from nurserymen.

Fire Department Has Not Grown With City

Fire Chief Dale Bond spoke to members of the Jacksonville Lions club Wednesday evening, Oct. 4th, at the Beef and Bird in the Dunlap Motor Inn. Dean Strubbe led in singing "America" and in the pledge to the flag to open the meeting conducted by the president Jim Holtschlag.

Lawrence Taylor as program chairman presented the speaker, Mr. Bond compared the growth of Jacksonville with the growth of the Fire Department, about which he is much concerned, because he stated the Department has not kept up with the growth of the City.

Mr. Bond is also concerned with the recent request by Northwestern Railroad to close five more crossings in Jacksonville, which would slow the department in reaching certain areas of the city when answering a fire alarm.

Bond traced the history of the Department, organized in 1840 and operated as a bucket brigade until 1860, (when pumps were purchased), through the years to the current time and a 100 foot ladder truck.

Don Strader, chairman for the Lions Candy Day, reported on sale plans for the date Oct. 6th.

Guests at the meeting were Bill Green from General Telephone Company and Ron Alstad from the YMCA.

Members of the board of directors met immediately after the dinner program and at that time the resignation of secretary Tom Svob was accepted and John Savoie was named to fill the vacancy. Attendance chairman Keith Schuman announced the committee is planning a 100 percent attendance night for the Nov. 29th meeting, to be staged.

Dean Strubbe, past District 1-G Cabinet Secretary, announced a delegate from the local club will attend the meeting next week in Hillsboro and present the new District Governor, Glenn Frame of Hillsboro, the District Governors gavel.

The board voted to donate fifty dollars to the United Fund. The secretary read a letter received from Mrs. Robert Bradley thanking the club for its donation to the American Field Service chapter in Jacksonville.
